good days, by that I mean when I'm at the top of the mountain filled with emotion and consolation. But He also loves me in days that are dark and dingy and yet, as I say, it is hard to say, "Come and love me." It seems as though you can't even call for Him to come or to love you.

Yet, we must extend this invitation to the Lord, "Veni Jesu, Amor Mi; come and love me." Now, more than ever I need You, Lord, in this trial, this tribulation but I also need You in my joys, my happiness and my comforts.

Eileen greets a Benedictine Nun following her service at St. John's - Worcester, MA - 12/28/14

I was walking in my yard today, way down back, under the Pine trees, near the Rose Garden and I called to Him, "Jesus, come and love me" and immediately I felt an overwhelming Presence of my God. It was wonderful!

You see, He never hesitates; the moment you give Him the invitation He comes running to you. Why? Because He loves you so much. This also happened last evening. I woke up, about the same time as I do every night, it was about quarter-of two and everything was dark, peaceful and stiff. The only one that acknowledged me waking was my dog, Brownie, who looked up at me, lying on the rug at the foot of the bed and wagged his tail. And I cried out again to my Jesus, my Master, my Lover, "Come, Veni Jesu, Amor Mi; come and love me." Oh the peace that filled my soul, the Presence of the Son of God.

I must instill this in all of your hearts and I pray you have the grace of openness to extend this invitation to our Blessed Lord; He wants so much to come and love us. But, again I say, He won't force Himself upon us, we must extend that invitation of love to Him and He will come to us in a new and beautiful way. Our life will be enriched, we will never be lonely again.

One thing about asking our Blessed Lord to come and love us — we don't have to run out and pretty our self up or put on special attire. He takes us as we are, shabby physically, maybe shabby spiritually. He accepts us as we are. We don't have to put on any false fronts for our Blessed Savior. He loves us and He accepts us; all He wants is that invitation, "Come Jesus and love me." Nowhere else could we ask someone to come and love us under these conditions.

A Word From
Father Jay Finelli

Those of us who knew Eileen were deeply moved by her love of God. Whenever you were around her, you could feel it. It exuded from her, from her very soul, and you wanted to have the same love as she did. I personally experienced this many times during her teaching and healing services and when I talked with her one-on-one.

Many of us believe that this love was a sign of deep holiness and union with God. Throughout the ages, the Church has tested this love by investigating the person's life for heroic virtue and at times the occurrence of miracles. Miracles during Eileen's life were certainly abundant and often confirmed by the medical field.

Along with a life of virtue, the Church looks for miracles after a person's death as a proof of holiness. We want to encourage you to seek Eileen's intercession.

Let me offer some guidance in this process. A miracle must be verifiable through scientific investigation. The Church must determine it to be a true miracle through the assistance of experts in the medical field.

If you know of someone who has a condition or illness that is incurable, or something that appears to be beyond all hope, invite people to join you in praying the Prayer for the Intercession of Eileen George. But, do not mix and match other novenas or saints for this intention. If there is a miracle, it must be clear that it came through Eileen's intercession.

Don't just pray for a few days and give up. Our Lord tells us to be persistent in prayer.

Finally, if it appears that someone has received a special grace, ask the person to write up their story and gather all the documentation the can from their doctor(s). We need all the information possible for the Church's investigation.

If you need copies of the Prayer of the Intercession of Eileen George, please write to Meet-the-Father Ministry. We have prayer cards in English, Portuguese, Spanish, Italian and Korean. See our website for other languages. And if you need prayer cards in an other language, let us know.

God bless,
Fr. Jay Finelli

A Field Full of Flowers

Excerpt from Eileen George's Book

Conversations In Heaven III

Dialogues with Jesus and God The Father, page 73

October 24, 1984

Well, I'm glad wonderful things are going to happen when I come, but I would like wonderful things to happen now…. Well, lots of stuff. I would like to see my church filled and people growing closer to the Father. I wish I could tell them about my valley, how we walk together and play together, how alive You really are. You just fill me with love….

Hi, my Father. Of course I'm happy. I love to be here and I'm happy because I'm here. I'd love to be here permanently…. I'm not going to talk about that now…. Loads of stuff. We've been walking through the water…. Do You like Jesus' crown? I made it for Him out of flowers, my Father. Butchie gave flowers to me and we stuck them in the tree and the tree just seems to love to hold them. It's going to take care of them for me until I come forever….

You will? You will give me a whole field of flowers. For me?…. You will allow me to pick them and throw them to earth. Won't they die when they are out of my valley?…. You mean when I throw them they will turn into graces and blessings, the whole field full, Father? I bet my friends will love that. We need blessings, Father. I'm glad You're going to turn them into blessings. They wouldn't know the color of these flowers. But a whole field full, Father and more so?…. The moment I breathe my last breath. I wish we could do it now. Maybe we could change everybody, including myself. I don't know how You think of these beautiful things, Father. I couldn't think of them in a million years…. A field full of flowers will be picked and sent to earth to all the people. There are so many here. You're so kind to us and so wonderful. I love You so much, my Father.

I would like one of those blessings now, Father. I'm not asking for a special privilege, but to send it down to earth, so that we may have peace…. You're so wonderful, Father, I love You so much….

That's the most beautiful thing You have given to me, Father. All Your gifts are wonderful. I just can't wait…. More than anything in the world…. That makes me feel good. Your hand is so warm and gentle, yet I feel its firmness and love. There is no shadow of a doubt that I am Yours, my Father.

Veni Jesu

Excerpts from Eileen's Tape #78 B

Veni Jesu, Amor Mi; it's Latin saying, "Come Jesus and love me." Throughout all of my life I have begged, I have pleaded, I have pursued Jesus to come and love me, not fully realizing just by saying, "Jesus, come and love me" that He was already loving me. Because only by grace could I ask Him to come and love me, "Veni Jesu Amor Mi." If there is but one song in my heart, one melody, it's "Come, Veni Jesu, Amor Mi, Come Jesus and love me." This is my sonnet for all times.

My only request is that He comes and loves me. My only aim in life is to accept this love that Jesus brings to me constantly, daily, especially in the Sacraments of His love — the Sacrament of Reconciliation and in Eucharist. The greatest love story ever written is the love story of Eileen and her Butchie, her Jesus.

I want to excite all of you, my brothers and sisters, my Father's children, about the love for the Lord, Jesus Christ. I want you also to give Him the beckoning call, "Veni Jesu Amor Mi; Come, Jesus and love me." I am here for You, waiting for You, Your caresses, Your love.

Oh Jesus, I know You will come in many forms. You wear many garments and You, also Love, have many disguises. Sometimes You come in a form, with my dearest friend, with words of knowledge and wisdom. Sometimes You come to me in words from Scripture or from the Priest's mouth standing on the Podium. Sometimes You come to me in the form of a beggar so I can exercise my charity, my love, so I can find You in this person; dare I turn You away, oh no, Jesus. Open Your arms to me, extend Your arms to me, accept me and love me.

And yet there are times that You come to me that I reject; in suffering, in pain, in valleys and deserts because You are a stepping stone or using these as a stepping stone to the Kingdom of Heaven. Do I accept Your love? Do I accept these valleys and deserts, these trials, these tribulations, these pains as special gifts from You, my Love? Yet, through these you do say, "Veni Jesu, Amor Mi; Come Jesus and love me." They are stepping stones to the Kingdom; they are priceless jewels rejected by man but lead me to the Kingdom of Heaven.

Within these trials, temptations, sufferings, tribulations, valleys and deserts, I find Your love because Your love is the graces that I'm acquiring and the merit and the virtue to climb closer to Thee. It's not that You want me to suffer but in this You give me the graces to use this suffering, pain, trials, tribulations, valleys and deserts as stepping stones to Thy Kingdom. Oh yes, my Jesus, come and love me any way that You see fit and if I kick and bolt like a young stallion and don't understand Your love bear with me, Jesus, my Love, have patience with me.

When people seem to turn against me or I feel rejected, alone, isolated from all men, "Veni Jesu, Amor Mi; Come and love me." When my trials seem so heavy, my mountains are so high to climb, my valleys are like deserts, dry, no sign of life, maybe not even hope, I cling to those words, "Veni Jesu, Amor Mi; Come, Jesus, and love me." You see, Love, they're the most important words in my vocabulary.

As long as I have the love of my Jesus, my God, nothing else seems to matter to me. I can make it because I'm not alone; He is with me, watching over me, protecting me, leading me on, and above all, loving me.

Eileen at her annual Priests Retreat
St. Benedict Abbey - Still River, MA - 9/11/13

At this time of my life, Jesus, when the Church seems to be in so much confusion, such liberal teachings, they're stepping outside of Doctrine and Tradition of the Church and it seems, at times, I have to stand alone, maybe even rejected because they think I'm too stern.

Yet, I'm always walking under the True Light of the Holy Spirit according to the Vatican rules but in my humanness I feel alone, so alone. But I must stand firm for what I know is right according to God's will for our Church. And I call upon You once more, "Veni, Veni Jesu, Amor Mi; Come Jesus and love me, make me strong. Don't ever let me ever turn backwards, always walking in the Light of Your Spirit, always obeying our Holy Father. Yes, come and love me, Jesus, now, I beg of You."

Extend an Invitation to the Lord

It is not always easy to extend this invitation to the Lord. Sometimes you want to, but it seems as though the words get stuck in your throat. Maybe the trial is too heavy, the emptiness beyond all human understanding, the loneliness almost desolation; yet, I must call out for Him, the Lord, Jesus, to come and love me. It is a sign of faith, a sign of trust, a sign of solidly loving Him. Oh, I know He loves me, not only on my
